The first was because the Democratic party was the only party able and willing to maintain this Union. As for the Oppositiun party, it was not known across the Ohio power for that purpose. Such a result can be best second by the discretion and moderation of our citizens, and I believe that all good men will publican party, and he hoped all good patriots unite in setting the proper example. I will not pretend to follow Mr. Garrard farther, as I cannot refrain from giving Capt. Goins a short reliearsal.

He took the stand and made a bold, respectful relation of his feelings and principles; said he tion; but he had become convinced that the Democratic party was right, and he intended to act with them throughout, except for representative, and he would do that from personal considerations. At the time I did not believe that Mr. Burnett would be a emdidate, from his former declarations and his position in regard to rotation. In this, however, I was disappointed. Mr. Burnett and myself have canvassed this District thus far together, and I am satisfied that the interest of the Democratic party, of which I have ever been a firm adherent, requires that one of us should retire from the contest-believing that it is the duty of every man to sacrifice his personal aspirations for the promotion of the principles of his party. I therefore feel no hesitation in withdrawing my same from the canvass, and I hope it may meet with the approbation of my friends. In becoming a candidate, I was not only actuated by the wish of my friends, but by, I trust, a laudable ambition and patriotic desire to serve my country. In prosecuting the canvass, I have met with much kindness and flattering encouragement from the people of the different counties in the District for which I feel profoundly grateful, and 1 take this occasion to return my sineere thanks to my frierls for the interest they have manifested in my behalf, and I hope they will approve my course. In conclusion, permit me to say, that I regret to see the general apathy prevailing in this Distriet in regard to our elections. I regard this as a very important crisis. At the next session of the Legislature we have a United States Separtor to elect and the State is to be apportioned, which should be enough to acouse every Democrat to a full discharge of his duty; and in addition to this, our election for Governor is of vast importance, not only in regard to State politics, but its effects will be felt in the Presidential contest
